

MILLING REDUCTION AT TONOPAH BELMONT WILL HELP INDUSTRY

The big event in mining this week, so far as it applies to conditions locally, lay in the announcement that the Tonopah Belmont Development company would reduce its milling charges on March 1. The new schedule which was announced Wednesday, should result in a much heavier tonnage of custom ore being received from the various properties throughout Nye county, and especially insofar as it applies to the Klondike and Divide districts.

Development at the Belmont mine went steadily forward during the week ending February 17, and the usual tonnage of ore was mined. Enlarged work is being performed on many of the levels, as will be evidenced from reading the following official report:

700 Level—Northwest crosscut 702 off east drift from raise 5, prospecting in Mizpah trachyte.

800 Level—Intermediate north-west crosscut off slope 855, prospecting for faulted segment of North vein. Raise 65, off north crosscut 803, prospecting for North vein.

900 Level—Intermediate southeast crosscut, off slope 916, prospecting footwall of Mizpah vein.

1000 Level—West drift 10040, off northeast crosscut 10039. South vein, face of low-grade ore. Raise 121, off north crosscut 1005, running for connection with 900 level.

1100 Level—Intermediate east drift off slope 1180, Rescue vein, 1 1/2 feet of milling ore. Raise 128, off Middle vein slope, prospecting hanging wall of Middle vein. East drift 11007, off south crosscut 1150, Miscellaneous vein. 1 foot fair ore. West drift 11008, off south crosscut 1150, Miscellaneous vein, prospecting fault. North crosscut 11013, off northwest crosscut 1130, prospecting in Mizpah trachyte.

1200 Level—South crosscut 10, off northwest crosscut, prospecting in Mizpah trachyte. Intermediate south crosscut off east slope 5, prospecting footwall of Belmont vein, has cut some fair milling ore.

1400 Level—Raise 16, off raise 13, prospecting for downward extension of 1220 vein.

CELESTIAL STARTS WORK ON NEW LEASE

Shaft sinking on the ground held under sub-lease on the Golden Eagle claim at Royston, by C. Y. Poy, will be in order within the next couple of days. The preliminary work, such as providing blacksmith shop and other accommodations, has been completed, and two expert shaft men have been engaged by Poy to start the work. The ground held by Poy was subleased from Benjamin Franklin Betts and associates, and embraces 300 feet on the Golden Eagle claim lying to the south of the Betts incline shaft. It is stated that Poy has a splendid surface showing at the site of the proposed shaft.

GREAT TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Warning Here to Those Who Neglect to Set Down Their Priceless Discoveries.

A noted author in the Statespost writes: "The commonest sign of fatigue is found in feeling of weariness."

There are times when we are almost led into believing that this is true. Equivocal and ambiguous as the statement may seem, at the first reading, it becomes clearer when read over four or five times. In fact, we don't know when the proposition has been stated with more clarity, after one masters the language in which it is couched.

Have you not often read things and said to yourself: "How often I have thought that very thing. Why did I not put it down in imperishable words?"

It is so with this. Doubtless, in your humble way you have often thought that your weariness was a sign of fatigue. At those times you thought a living truth, but did you write and tell some magazine of your priceless discovery? No. You allowed somebody to come along, perhaps years after, and do it.

The moral is that when you think a great thought, put it down on paper at once. Even if you do put it away somewhere and forget it, posterity may find it.

Now, many times in our career we have had feelings of weariness. Some of our friends have been misguided enough to attribute it to laziness—an awful word, particularly among friends. But, when we were weary, it was not laziness that ailed us. It was fatigue.

And we never knew the truth until we read the magazine article mentioned. We have been slandered for years by a wrong idea—Exchange.

HIGH HONOR FOR SMALL GIRL

Face of Ten-Year-Old Has Appeared on Millions of Coins of the United States.

The government of the United States in 1835 made an offer of $1,000 for the most acceptable design to be placed upon the new cent coin soon to be issued. Some Indian chiefs traveled from the northwest to Washington to visit the Great Father and then journeyed to Philadelphia to see the mint, whose chief engraver was James Barton Longacre, who invited them to his home.

The engraver's daughter, Sarah, aged 10, greatly enjoyed the visit of her father's guests and during the evening, to please her, one of the chiefs took off his feathered helmet and war bonnet and placed it on her head. In the company was an artist, who immediately sketched her and handed the picture to her father. Mr. Longacre, knowing of the competition for a likeness to go upon the cent projected, under the inspiration of the hour, resolved to contend for the prize offered by the government. To his delight the officials accepted it, and the face of his daughter appeared upon the coin, which was circulated about the nation for nearly a century. There were more than a hundred competitors. The cent bearing the face of Sarah Longacre has gone into more hands than any other American coin.

How England Grows.

A great deal of interest is taken in England in the question of coast protection. The ocean, assailing the cliffs, gradually tears them away, but this very process furnishes a defense for the land by building up long beaches of sand and shingle which arrest the waves before they can attack the cliffs. An effort is making to prevent, or better regulate, the removal of this material for construction and road building, because in many places its removal has permitted the sea freely to exert its power of erosion.

The ordinance survey has ascertained that in the last half century England has lost 6,640 acres by sea erosion and gained 48,000 acres through reclaiming land the existence of which is mainly due to material brought down by the rivers.

Growth of the Cities.

A Cleveland editor once said that Cincinnati's chief business was "pork and politics," observes Girard in the Philadelphia Press.

You have been told in advertisements a million times that a certain beer "made Milwaukee famous."

Everybody knows that Washington, D. C., has one big industry—holding down government jobs.

The new census figures from these cities, all above 400,000, are significant.

Pork population increased only 10 per cent in a decade, while beer population expanded 22 per cent. Both look small compared with the growth in government job population of 32 per cent.

Two Vials.

"A feller 'way down there on Fiddle Creek found a bottle floating in the water tuther day," related an acquaintance. "In it was a note from a lady, saying she was being held for ransom by a band of brigadiers, or whatever you call 'em."

"Humph," replied Heck Tarpy of Straddle Ridge. "Tobe Swoller found a bottle in the road, whur it had prob'ly struggled loose from some feller, and it was half full of bone-dry lick-er that made Tobe holler that he was so tough he could climb a honey locust tree backwards with a wildcat under each arm and never get a scratch."—Kansas City Star.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Secretaries of Corporations Doing Business in Nevada But Incorporated in Other States

OUR CHARGE $9.00

SECTION 1.—All foreign corporations doing business in the State of Nevada shall, not later than the month of March in each year, beginning in the year 1914, publish a statement of their last year's business in some newspaper published in the State of Nevada. If published in a daily newspaper, such statement shall be published for a period of one week, or if published in a semi-weekly or tri-weekly newspaper, for a period of two weeks; or if published in a weekly newspaper for a period of four weeks.

SECTION 2.—The secretary of the company publishing the statement shall file a copy with the assessor of each county of the State of Nevada, in which said company is doing business.

SECTION 4.—Any district attorney in the state is competent to sue to recover the penalty, or the attorney general. The first county suing through its district attorney shall secure the penalty, and if no suit is brought for the penalty by any district the State shall have the right to recover through its attorney-general.

The TONOPAH DAILY BONANZA will make publication required by law, which includes the filing of a sworn affidavit of publication with the assessor of each of the counties of the State, within which the company is doing business; an affidavit of publication will also be furnished secretaries.
